Osaka – A Family Tradition

Continuously Voted Best in Vegas

Tradition can be mighty tasty, and here it might actually be considered doubled. At Osaka on west Sahara classic Japanese dishes have been served for almost 50 years - and that longevity makes it additionally a Las Vegas tradition.

In that time it has garnered numerous top awards, most recently Best Japanese honors in the current R-J "Best of Las Vegas" poll. And the stamp of approval for its authenticity reverberates in its selection as one the 50 Best Japanese Restaurants by Shukan Asahi, Japan's largest weekly magazine.

Now operated by the second generation of the founding Nakanishi family, it serves a broad menu of Japanese favorites, and yes embracing such native ingredients as live surf clams, live abalone, half-beak, bonita and rudderfish. But fear not, there are lots of options for shy palates too.

Two visual aids provide guidance to the novice and reminders to the pro about the sushi choices. One is the menu itself, with clear images and full descriptions of each and every item.

As well, a video screen rotates through the menu tempting the diner with one beautiful sushi creation after another. These mini works of art come from the deft hands of former National Sushi Competition Adjudicator of Japan and award-winning sushi chef Shingo Alhara and his all-Japanese crew.

Entrees are equally decorative in their presentation and quite generous. All of course, and most important, are a treat for the palate. That's the driving force behind Osaka's very full trophy cabinet.

Take a seat in the Tatami room, Tepanyaki grill, or sushi bar. Or, at a table at your own party, as Osaka offers full catering service.
